

Vocational Rehabilitation Occupational Therapy Service

Physiotherapy & Occupational Therapy

Who is this leaflet for?

This leaflet is for patients who have been referred to the Vocational Rehabilitation service. It explains what the service is, where it is based and how you can contact us.

What is Vocational Rehabilitation Occupational Therapy?

Vocational rehabilitation is a service provided by The Royal Wolverhampton NHS Trust. It provides assessments, advice and support to people with neurological conditions who are ready to actively participate in returning to work, volunteering, training, or education.

The service is run by Occupational Therapists who have a special interest in vocational rehabilitation.

Where is the service based?

The service is based in the Occupational Therapy department at West Park Rehabilitation Hospital.

How are referrals made to the service?

You may have been referred by a Consultant in Rehabilitation Medicine, other Occupational Therapists, Physiotherapists, Social Services or any other members of the multi-disciplinary team. Also other agencies - such as the Job Centre Plus – refer clients into the service.

What help does the service offer?

Following an initial assessment the therapist will work with you to develop realistic goals and help you achieve them. This could include returning to work in your previous job, perhaps in a reduced capacity (e.g. reduced hours). Alternatively assistance can be offered with retraining for alternative work, voluntary work or relevant college courses.

The service works with various agencies including Job Centre Plus, voluntary agencies, colleges and Access to Work to enable you to achieve your goals. This is an on-going process which is continually evaluated to ensure your needs are being met.
